Frances Anne Hopkins , Frances Anne Hopkins MaryEllen Weller-Smith,2021-06-15 Frances Anne Hopkins paintings record fur trade canoe travel and inspire modern wilderness adventurers The art has broad appeal and enduring popularity but the basic question underlying this biography is how can it be that the finest artist of canoe travel is a mid nineteenth century woman The many challenges she faced included gaining access to the Hudson s Bay Company territory known as Rupert s Land blending the roles of wife mother and artist in an era without dependable birth control finding exhibition opportunities and patrons and establishing a career as a professional London artist During her Canadian years Canadian art diverged from British art just as Rupert s Land was sold to the newly established Dominion of Canada

Frances Anne Hopkins Thomas Schultze,2008-01-01 Frances Anne Hopkins and the George Back Connection Pamela Kathaleen MacDonald,2004 My paper examines the artistic influence of the renowned British explorer and artist George Back on fellow Rupert s Land artist Frances Anne Hopkins wife of Edward Hopkins the man in charge of the Montreal Division of the Hudson s Bay Company in the mid nineteenth century The aesthetic gap between the two artists is wide in that Back s sketches depict a kind of terrifying wasteland quality best described as sublime Hopkins Canadian landscapes are colorful on the other hand and show people who are at ease with their surroundings Other notable artists also documented nineteenth century Canadian landscapes in visual images and may have had an indirect influence on Hopkins I suggest however a more direct link may be made between the artists beyond the similarities drawn out of their sublime and beautiful images My study proposes to show that influence may exist based on Hopkins father and his Admiralty connection to Back After a discussion on the important historical aspects coloring the artists work I will clarify the Hopkins family tie relationship to Back followed by a discussion of their art and potential evidence of influence Leaf iii Frances Anne Hopkins, 1838-1919 Janet E. I'm Not Myself at All Kristina Huneault,2018-07-16 Notions of identity have long structured women s art Dynamics of race class and gender have shaped the production of artworks and oriented their subsequent reassessments Arguably this is especially true of art by women and of the socially engaged criticism that addresses it If identity has been a problem in women s art however is more identity the solution In this study of nineteenth and early twentieth century art in Canada Kristina Huneault offers a meditation on the strictures of identity and an exploration of forces that unsettle and realign the self Looking closely at individual artists and works Huneault combines formal analysis with archival research and philosophical inquiry building nuanced readings of objects that range from the canonical to the largely unknown Whether in miniature portraits or genre paintings botanical drawings or baskets women artists reckoned with constraints that limited understandings of themselves and others They also forged creative alternatives At times identity features in women s artistic work as a failed project at other times it marks a boundary beyond which they were able to expand explore and exult Bringing together settler and indigenous forms of cultural expression and foregrounding the importance of colonialism within the development of art in Canada I m Not Myself at All observes and reactivates historical art by women and prompts readers to consider what a less restrictive conceptualization of selfhood might bring to current patterns of cultural analysis The Illustrated Voyageur Howard Sivertson,1994 The life of voyageurs was never easy These rugged French Canadian men
